POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

A "scorched earth" policy, born of war or politics, or perhaps a combination of the two, threatens to blot out the long-cherished dream of California's vast and fabulously fertile Central Valley — the dream of a day when winter storm waters would be harnessed and stored to irrigate millions of thirsty acres in the long, arid months of summer.

Many millions already have been appropriated and spent to build the giant Central Valley Water Project, which was to be the life-line of the arid and semi-arid agricultural areas, but the great project, in its present state, is as useless as a luxurious limousine stripped of its tires.

Great dams are being rushed to completion; great power units are almost ready to be installed. A total of $37,750,000 was allocated to the big project for the fiscal year which ends in July. And now pending before the House Appropriations committee is the biggest appropriation of all for the year just ahead—$48,769,000! But when the huge dams are finished, and their massive reservoirs are full—unless there is a sudden reversal of policy — there will be no means of transporting the water to valley farm lands or communities. With the exception of the Contra Costa Canal, designed mainly to serve industrial plants, no canals or water conduits have been built — and government agencies, placing greater emphasis on power phases of the project, are showing no inclination to build them!

About mid-April, the great Friant Dam—the fourth largest concrete dam in the world, built at a cost of $30,000,000—will be completed and ready for dedication. But Roland Curran, secretary-manager of the Central Valley Project association, now in Washington seeking funds for canals and waterways, sends back this message:

"The Friant Dam, upon completion, will have the doubtful value, and the sole value, of impeding the migratory fish that travel up and down the San Joaquin river. Other than that, it will stand as a monument to bureaucracy, for there are no canals or conduits to take the water to the land."

Mr. Curran adds that appropriations to start construction of the Friant-Kern Canal, and to continue construction of the Madera Canal, previously begun, were made available last year by Congress, but that the work was finally called off by Reclamation Bureau officials on the ground that the nation was at war and that the money was needed for power phases of the project to meet a predicted shortage in electric energy at some future time. The long-standing water shortage problem, which gave birth to the project, and which has a vital bearing on the ability of California farmers to produce in keeping with war- time quotas was ignored.

As a consequence, California will shortly have a new $30,000,000 dam, one of the finest and most modern in the world—but to quote Mr. Curran, again, "it won't be worth a damn," because there are no canals connecting with it. Mr. Curran, however, is still back in Washington battling, and farmers in the Central Valley who conceived the big project and put up the first funds to campaign for it, are starting to write letters to their Congressmen!

Death of William Smeed Shock to Host of Friends

Report of the passing of William S. Smeed at the Southern Pacific hospital in San Jose Sunday morning was sad news to his host of friends and acquaintances.

Born at Laurium, Michigan, nearly fifty-three years ago, Mr. Smeed came to San Jose as a young man and entered railroad work which he followed for thirty years. During this period of service he had advanced to general forman and was supervisor of trains leaving San Francisco.

His genial, even temper and disposition and sympathetic attitude to those serving under him had made him many devoted friends.

He was a member of several organizations of railroad employees among whom he also numbered many friends.

In 1915 he married Miss Hilda Pidancet of San Jose and they made that city their home until eleven years ago when they moved to North Union avenue in Campbell. Four years ago they purchased a house on North Second street, which is now the family home.

Immediate relatives surviving are his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Jack Williams of Campbell and Mrs. Thomas Cvietkovich, San Jose; a son, William S. Smeed, Jr.; and two sisters, Mrs. Burdette Heath and Mrs. Beryl Springer of Seattle.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the Amos O. William chapel, with the Reverend Hugh M. Jones officiating. Mr. Williams, who was a personal friend sang "In The Garden," a favorite song of Mr. Smeed.

Pall bearers were all railroad foremen from San Francisco, and interment was in Oak Hill Memorial park.

New Bomb Film Will Be Shown At School Wednesday

W. H. Van Dyke has received notice that a moving picture dealing with methods of handling and putting out incendiary bombs will be shown at the Campbell Union High school auditorium, next Wednesday evening at 7:30.

All members connected with the local civilian defense organization, are expected to attend, and others interested may be present.

This is a new picture which has not been shown here before.

Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Brunswick and children were down from Upper Lake over the holiday.

NO INTERRUPTIONS, PLEASE

High School Band Will Play For Woman's Club

Dr. Bert Rudolph of the University of California will speak on "Panama and the Canal Zone" at the Country Woman's club meeting on Monday.

Musical selections will be presented by the pupils of Kenneth McDonell of the Campbell High school.

Mrs. J. O. Leverton is program head. Others on the committee are Mesdames Hattie Baugh, J. F. Duncan, and E. I. Price.

Mrs. G. E. Jeffers, president of the club announces that there will be a board meeting at 2:00. The regular business meeting will be at 2:30 and the program will be presented at 3:00.

Local People Attend Forum

A group of Campbell women and friends occupied a no-host table at the Garden Forum luncheon at the Sainte Claire hotel Saturday. Mrs. Charles Simonds was responsible for the decorations in the Hawaiian theme, using an arrangement of coral, glass floats from fishermen's nets, magnolia leaves and red camellias.

Seated at the table were Mesdames Herbert Hudson, Frank Jacobson, Raymond Bishop, Charles Simonds, Virgil Wilson of Los Altos and Dorothy Baker of San Jose.

The Raymond Bishops lived in the Islands for some time, the earlier members of the family having been founders of missionary work there.

Several paintings of flowers made by Mrs. Simonds while on Maui last summer were on display.

The Campbell Union Grammar School P.-T. A. will meet Tuesday, March 3, at 2:30 in the kindergarten room. Mrs. David Hibbs, state board chairman of the Exceptional Child department, will be guest speaker.

Eva Mitchell Announces Her Engagement

A very interesting meeting of the Omega Circle of the Methodist church was held at the parsonage last evening, with Mrs. Franklin Blaine, president, presiding.

Following the business session, devotions were led by Mrs. Earl Buck, and Mrs. Neil R. Sellers read a paper on psychology, "Knowing Ourselves."

Mrs. Paul Becker gave an instructive talk on flower arrangement.

Refreshments of ice cream in the mold of an engagement ring and little fancy cakes were served by the hostesses, Mrs. George Green, Miss Eva Mitchell and Mrs. Donald Balwin.

Accompanying the refreshments were heart shaped cards bearing the announcement of the engagement of Miss Eva Mitchell to J. M. Dahl.

The bride to be has lived in Campbell for most of her life, during which she has been an active and devoted worker in the Sunday school of the Methodist church.

Mr. Dahl came to Campbell shortly before the late B. O. Curry retired from active business life and later took over the Curry real estate office and conducts the Dahl real estate business there.

ALIENS IN CAMPBELL

Two residents of the Campbell area were taken into custody as potentially dangerous enemy aliens in the F. B. I. raids staged Saturday.

They were Felice Bersano, 44, of Harriet avenue, a salesman, native of Italy, who formerly owned an electrical appliance and radio shop in San Jose, and John Perata, 42, a farmer of McCoy road, also a native of Italy.

Private Dean Chamberlin is visiting in Campbell and Los Gatos today.

Warning Station Is to be Set Up In Campbell

Requested by George Britton, county director for the aircraft warning service, the Kiwanis club consented to sponsor the Campbell post of the county network of ground observation.

In conjunction with members of the high school and local civilian defense committee, club members got together and chose a committee of six men to head up the preliminary organization, J. E. Murdock, Dr. W. I. Merrill, W. H. Van Dyke, Lowell Benson, Carl Field and Clarence Nelson.

This group met Friday and named Herbert Hudson of the physical education department of the high school, chief observer.

He was to choose three assistants, subject to the approval of the committee, and then the committee will meet again for final plans.

The listening post which has been located in a private home will be moved to a more isolated spot and become a separate unit.

These listening posts are manned for the twenty-four hours around, and the approach of planes is reported, to be checked by authorized agents.

Kiwanians Hear About Attack on Pearl Harbor

The Kiwanis club was given a very informal but interesting account of personal experiences at Honolulu on Dec. 7, by Robert McGavren of the San Jose State college at its Tuesday meeting.

McGavren accompanied the college football team as photograhper and with the other boys was assigned to active police duties during which he had some exciting experiences. Paul Becker was chairman.

Next week Kenneth Van Gundy of the P. G. & E. will show sound motion pictures titled "Whirling Wheels," which portray the use of power in industry. Ray Bishop will do the honors.

Service Club Holds Meeting Wednesday

The Women's Service club held its February meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Guy E. Farley, with Mrs. Howard Comstock and Miss Muriel Carson assistant hostesses.

Plans were made for next meeting which will be a pot luck lunch at the home of Mrs. Hazel Kennedy. The afternoon will be spent in working on quilts for the emergency hospital.

Rev. George Marsh of Ojai who had attended the Earl lectures in Berkeley last week stopped in Campbell Tuesday to visit old time friends here.

Residents Enjoy Program of Entire Old Settlers' Day

Rain somewhat dampened but did not extinguish the observance of Old Settlers' day Saturday. The parade made its scheduled tour at the time set and participants and audience were just safely within doors when Jupiter Pluvius resumed operations.

Music of both the high school band and the a cappella choir was much appreciated. The invocation given by Rev. Donald Baldwin, which follows, touched a responsive chord in the minds of those present.

"Almighty and Everlasting God, who through our fathers 'brought forth upon this continent a new nation,' we acknowledge thee today.

We acknowledge thee as Creator, apart from whom there is no known thing of any value.

We acknowledge thee as the Author of freedom, of truth and of brotherhood; the giver of every intelligent process by which we work and grow.

At this moment in our lives as citizens in this community, help us, O God, to see that lives which remain undedicated to thee are a detriment to the cause of truth and the way of brotherhood.

Help us to restore unto thee, the place of central affection and loyalty within ourselves which in our best moments we know must become thin if we are to contribute in any positive way to the kind of a world we hope to see.

To this end we pray thy humble blessing to rest upon our community,upon its citizenry, upon our homes, our schools, our churches, our children.

And even as we ask thy blessing we also pray thy judgment to fall and thy condemnation to rest upon every sinful way, every evil act, every wilful means which we in our blindness and self-righteousnes may choose.

This we pray with the hope that thy kingdom may come and thy will be done on earth through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

R. V. Garrod of Saratoga, a member of the farm board and the department of agriculture, was the speaker of the day. He reviewed briefly the growth of Campbell, men-

Renegades' Roost

EMILIO AGUINALDO, leader of a revolt against the United States forces in the Philippines at the turn of the century, has returned to his earlier ways. Today the 73-year old ex-insurrectionist is taking his orders from Japan.

Installed in Manila as head of a Quisling government, Aguinaldo has urged native and American troops fighting with General MacArthur to lay down their arms to the enemy. So reports a War Department communique.

Aguinaldo's desertion to the enemy places him in company with those abject creatures, the Benedict Arnolds and the Lavals, who in wars past and present have betrayed their own people for money or power. The Arnolds, the Lavals and Vidkin Quislings were no enemy aliens, but fellow countrymen of those they deserted.

In contrast to Aguinaldo's position, has been the heroic stand of Filipino fighters in company with American troops under General MacArthur. They have demonstrated that they well know. if their misleader does not, who the enemy of the Philippine people is.

Mourning At Sunnybank

WHEN THE HEALTH of Albert Payson Terhune began to fail, and he was obliged to give up bit by bit his heavy program of writing and lecturing, he chose to retain to the very last his syndicated little column on dogs as pals and pets, "Under the Dog Star." All his life Terhune maintained his famous Sunnybank collie kennels, and campaigned to make the world a better place for dogs to live in.

If the dog is man's best friend, Albert Payson Terhune was unquestionably the best friend that dogs in general, ever had. All dogs—for although his aristocratic collies won many show honors, Terhune was a stout advocate of the small boy's mongrel as every whit the equal of the blueblooded bench champion in intelligence, course and loyalty.

The papers say there is mourning at Sunnybank—mourning among the low-whining collies who sense, in some dim, sad canine way, that Albert Payson Terhune is dead.

Ladies' Aid

WITH A WILL and a way, the ladies have been taking to first aid courses throughout the country. They are learning the strategic pressure points of arteries, how to apply tourniquets, artificial respiration and other information vital to a warring world. Nevertheless, we trust that small number of women who are alarmingly over-confident of their ability will temper their enthusiasm with caution when an honest-to-gosh emergency arises.

This hope springs upon us on reading two California news items. One first aid student began practicing her pressure point technique on her husband. The poor fellow fainted dead away. . . . In a first aid class, one woman pretended to be an air-raid victim, suffering from a broken neck. Her "rescuer", without a moment's hesitation, dextrously applied a tourniquet to the victim's neck. . . . A little knowledge, all too clearly, is a dangerous thing. So let there be light particularly among those who know little and do not know it. Let it never be said of them that the first aid they brought their victim was the first, and last, aid the victim ever knew.

Orchard City Grange

Meeting of Orchard City Grange No. 333 in I. O. O. F. hall in Campbell, Feb. 24.

The visiting master was Stanley Smith of the San Jose grange.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Coupland were granted demits together with regrets that they will be unable to attend the grange meetings for a while.

Poultry — Mark Purmort reported that the sexing of chicks has fallen into new difficulties because many Japanese who were skilled in that art have been evacuated from various places.

Home Economics—Melissa Smith reported that the home economics committee will give a card party at the home of Mrs. M. F. Hughes on March 6. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Rose Hanger on March 13.

Marketing—Mervyn Keesling reported that there is no change in the price of prunes because there is no tonnage left. The prices on dried fruit are good because the carryover is the lowest in years. Prices have been stabilized because in this county alone over 1000 acres of prune trees and over 100 acres of apricot trees have been pulled out. Dried fruit, he reported, is most practical for war use. In the matter of tin rationing tin is allowed 100 per cent for cling peaches but none at all for freestones.

Farm and orchard—Harry Barnes reported concerning brown rot on the apricots. He advised spraying twice.

Civic improvement—Herbert Shadle reported that a new Campbell sign is on the way for the entrance to the town from the San Jose-Los Gatos road. Also that the police patrol service under Frank Weeks is to continue but with a system to guarantee better pay.

Lecture program — Martin Walsh in charge. A first aid demonstration was given under the direction of Mrs. Nellie Rutherford. Those taking part were Mr. and Mrs. Carrie Harris, Bert Campbell, and Mrs. Mary Livingston. All methods of bandaging, artificial respiration, transporman's rescue were demonstrated. The film which was to have been shown, for some unavoidable reason failed to arrive but will be shown at a later date.

Legislation—Harry Barnes reported concerning the price control bill.

Stanley Smith announced that next Saturday, Feb. 28, there will be the Pomona meeting at Almaden school. It will begin with the officers meeting at 4 p. m., pot luck dinner at 6:30 and the main meeting at 8 o'clock. Sunday there will be a seven-county meeting at 10 a. m. at I. O. O. F. hall in San Jose. Pot luck diner at 12:15 and at 2:30 the film "Fight That Bomb" will be shown.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served in the banquet hall.

Fire Bug

WHILE ROUNDING UP dangerous and potentially dangerous enemy aliens, authorities might helpfully keep a vigilant eye on a dangerous native species, the "fire bug." One such pyromaniac, later captured, last week set fire to a Sacramento lumber yard, doing $75,000 damage. This mentally irresponsible culprit has spent the better part of the last ten years escaping from state institutions for the insane where he had been committed for similar offenses. As long ago as 1933, California police records show he made good 19 escapes from such mental houses. Obviously, police authorities should tighten communities' defense lines against the pyromaniac to protect plants and properties vital to defense without further delay.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"Windswept" by Mary Ellen Chase.

In this book, your Book Mark has truly done service. The service has been one of interest and pleasure, and even after 'marking' the book at least a half-dozen times.

In "Windswept," the author swept me righ off my feet with her vivid descriptive passages. So real are the descriptions that from the very beginning of the story to its final sentences, as a scrap of paper, I was caught in the fierce wind off the coast of Maine and blown onto a certain locality only a few hundred feet back from the cliff where the great watery waves beat incessantly. "Whatever dramas were enacted here upon this stage, against these settings, behind this orchestra of wind and surf, should by right call forth in those who played their parts only constancy and honour." That's what the author said about the location. Isn't the arrangement of those words beautiful?

"Windswept" is a romantic word in itself—yet the author employed it to describe the vast stretch of land along the New England coast and also to give the house on this vast stretch of land a title.

And now that we know where we are—in the book I mean — may I introduce to you the main characters, the owners of the property of "Windswept." First, may I present Philip Marston, the man who loved the land and dreamed of owning it and building on it, and second his son, John Marston, who subsequently inherited the property and who, after his father's sudden death, endeavored and struggled to carry out his father's wishes regarding it. A most colorful and important person, Jan Pisek, must next be introduced because he plays a powerful role and has a marked influence on the life of John Marston, and also in the construction and erection of "Windswept." There are a few other characters but only a few. This is one book that does not baffle the reader with a long parade of personages.

A generation is swept through this book, but not without leaving traces of action. It is the traces of action that grasp and hold your interest.

Gum Drops and Cottage Cheese

By BETTY BARCLAY

Never sigh because you are "cooked out." Never complain that it is impossible to think of a new dessert. While you are sympathizing with yourself, some neighbor is exploring her refrigerator and store room — coming out before you know it with a handful of the most surprising things for a new dessert.

Shut your eyes and think of anything. "Gum drops!" Think once more. "Cottage cheese!" What could be more ridiculous? But wait! Each of these, with very few added ingredients, may be turned into a new and novel dessert — probably one you have never seen.

Furthermore, these desserts are healthful. They are inexpensive. They are easy to prepare. They are delicious. They require no eggs, no baking and no boiling. They may be made in the cool of the morning and set aside for lunch or dinner.

Try these two recipes and you'll find that gum drops and cottage cheese are far from ridiculous desserts when handled properly.

Cottage Cheese Rennet Custard

1 jar (12 oz.) cottage cheese
1 pint milk (not canned or soft curd)
1 package vanilla rennet powder
Strained honey

Distribute the cottage cheese among 4 or 5 sherbet glasses. Make rennet custard according to directions on package. Then chill. Just before serving drop a spoonful of strained honey into the center of each rennet custard.

Spice Drop Surprise Rennet Custard

½ cup spiced gum drops (small)
1 pint milk (not canned or soft curd)
1 package vanilla rennet powder

Drop 6 spiced gum drops, cut in half, into each of 4 or 5 sherbet glasses or custard cups. Warm milk slowly, stirring constantly, until lukewarm — not hot. Test a drop on inside of wrist frequently. When comfortably warm — 120° F., immediately remove from stove. Stir rennet powder into milk briskly until dissolved — not more than one minute. Pour at once, while still liquid, over the spiced gum drops. Do not move glasses until firm — about 10 minutes. Then chill in ice box. Just before serving, garnish each rennet custard with a flower made by cutting a colored gum drop into petals and spreading them apart, and leaves made by quartering green gum drops. (For a children's party, these might be set on a mirror-tray to reflect the vari-colored gum drops lying at the bottom of each cup.)

Laughing Around the World

No World's War Need Apply

By IRVIN S. COBB

IMMEDIATELY following the Spanish-American War a story went the round regarding a volunteer who suffered grievous hardships first at Chickamauga, then at Tampa, then in Porto Rico and wound up by having a spell of slow fever. One night, when he was convalescent but still shaky, an officer passing through the hospital ward overheard the invalid as he communed with himself.

"I love my country," the volunteer was saying. "I've fought for her and if 'twas necessary I was ready to die for her. But if I get out of this mess I ain't never goin' to love another country as long as I live!"

For this ancient yarn there is a companion piece of comparatively recent vintage. A battered veteran of the regular army, who had been wounded at Chateau Thierry was visited by a chaplain. The latter inquired regarding his well-being and expressed the hope that the soldier would live to wear the uniform for a great many years to come.

"Well, Padre," said the old timer, "so far as I'm concerned I'll tell you how the thing stands: Before this here World's War came along I thought I'd had a lot of experience and had seen my share of hard campaignin'. I served in Cuby and in the Phillippines, and when the Indians acted hostile I went on the scout after them several times, out West. But we didn't have to deal with pizen gases or high explosive shells the size of galvanized iron ash-cans in any of them little mixups. Padre, I ain't lost my gimp and I wouldn't hang back if Uncle Sam wanted me to help mop up anybody that went on the rampage back home in God's country. But strictly in confidence, I don't mind tellin' you that this here is goin' to be my last World's War."

130's DROP FIRST GAME

Last Friday the once undefeated 130's found their equal in a well-organized and powerful Mountain View quintet.

This was the most exciting game of the season, as shown by the over-excited crowd. In copping the contest the Eagles had to take two overtimes to overpower the scrappy local 130's. Byron Tonascia led his team by chalking up 8 points.

The unlimiteds took their fifth win of the season as they dumped the Eagles' heavyweights 31-14. The Bucs glided through this with leaders all the way. Bennie Carvelho again found his eye and hit the loop for 13 points. This closes the season for the local teams, who fared well in league competition.

In the Spanish-American war it was found that the dark blue uniforms, formerly worn by American soldiers were too warm for the tropics, so khaki cloth uniforms were introduced.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

Farm foreclosure sales during the past fiscal year were the lowest in seven years, according to an announcement by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

A drop of 30 per cent was recorded as compared to the previous year, reported A. G. Black, governor of the Farm Credit Administration. The use of mortgage credit by farmers increased during the year, however, with the dollar volume of farm mortgage lending going up about 8 per cent.

The report indicated that foreclosures by individuals showed the smallest decline about 20 per cent. Insurance companies, with a drop of 44 per cent, and FCA creditors, with a reduction of 38 per cent, reflected the biggest decline in foreclosures.

Improvement in farm income was a major factor contributing to the reduction, the Deartment of Agriculture stated, but another important factor was that more than 100,000 Land Bank and Commissioner loans were reamortized during the preceding year.

Not directly related to the farm foreclosure subject, but of considerable interest in its bearing on the soundness of farm real estate as an investment, is the announcement of Leland P. Reeder, newly-elected president of the California Real Estate association, that "a very active and ready market for real estate can be expected during 1942 because of the natural tendency of investors to return to land in times of threatened inflation and because of the effect the war and priorities will have on new building."

"It is my viewpoint," said Reeder, "that the next year or more will be a period of increased activity in real estate. Land and its products are the basic commodities of our economy and private ownership of land is a basic American ideal. This fact challenges the imagination of our citizens and is one of the strongest bulwarks of our nations."

Farm land prices, however, are not expected to skyrocket to the abnormal levels which they did during the first World War. Farmers, remembering the disastrous results of that "boom" when the bubble burst during the post-war period, will be less likely to pay extravagant prices for land, and lending agencies will also exercise greater caution.

The Farm Credit Administration announces that it "is adhering to a policy of making real estate loans primarily on the basis of the productive capacity of the farm in terms of normal values." It adds: "This policy should be a stabilizing force as we head toward a period in which dangerous speculative factors may again appear in land values."

With the war program calling for a tremendous increase in American farm production during this year, and possibly for several years to come, it is probable that there will be a recovery in farm real estate values which were abnormally depressed during the long years of glutted markets and ruinous prices. It is also possible that there will be a brisk market for farm properties, but it is to be hoped that the lessons of the first World War have been learned and will help to prevent a new speculative spree which could only end disastrously for both agriculture and the whole nation.

The Department of Agriculture predicts that farming during 1942 will be "a prosperous profession," saying: "For every $1 the American farmer earned in 1932, it is anticipated he will receive $2.60 this year." But in 1932, it is well to remember, most farmers were either in bankruptcy or staggering on the verge of it, and since then his costs of production have been rapidly rising. Gross returns do not indicate prosperity. It is the net returns that count.

This is a good time for farmers to "solidify their lines" and pay off mortgages on the land they already own so that they will have protection against foreclosures in the years to come. It is definitely not a good time to mortgage the future!

LOST YOUR TAX STAMP?

The following ruling by the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue is of interest to motorists who, in good faith, purchased their Federal Use Tax Stamp, only to have it stolen.

Apply at the nearest office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, prepared to give maye, cylinders, year model, body type and motor number of car. The applicant will be required to sign an affidavit to the effect that the stamp was stolen, and will then be given a certificate in lieu of the stamp. Records will be checked to verify the fact that the original stamp was purchased.

Doggone Nice

When Laddie, a half-bred collie dog owned by Dr. Alby E. Hodgdon, of Needham, Mass., bares his teeth he isn't angry—he's just proud of his bridgework. Nine years ago the dog snapped a tooth gnawing a bone. So his master, a dentist, took impressions of the upper right incisor and in spare time made a solid gold replacement. Dr. Hodgdon says the false tooth is practical because it helps Laddie in eating and also is positive identity in case the dog becomes lost.

tioning the establishment here of the first rural mail delivery in the state and also the first farmers' coperative.

His main emphasis, however, was placed upon the further development of agriculture in line with helping to raise quotas requested of growers by the government.

"The government has set crop quotas needed by the United States and its allies in 1943 to carry the war to a successful end," he said. "You can help in this program, and I urge you to fill out the questionnaires which will be mailed to you by the farm board and return them as soon as possible."

AUTOMATIC GAS WATER HEATER
...Better Not Wait!

There is, of course, no need to buy a water heater if you do not need one. That's foolish buying. If, however, your present water heater shows signs that it cannot stand up in duty on the home front for the duration, then you had better get one that will.

The efficient service of an Automatic Gas Water Heater will be a big help to you. A plentiful supply of hot water is a step in economy, because it cleans clothes, dishes, floors and walls speedier and with less soap.

Check over your present water heater. If you NEED a new one, it would be wise to act soon.
